Four Hurt In California Explosion

RICHMOND, Calif., Feb. 12 (4)-Fire caused a thundering explosion at the Hercules Powder Plant at nearby Pinole today and Police Chief Hugh Young said eight men were killed, two were missing and four were injured.

The blast, in an operating building, broke windows in a wide area and was felt and seen in San Francisco, more than 20 air-line miles

Some Victims Identified

"A big white cloud shot high into the sky," said Policeman John Daly, who was on duty in San Francisco's Hall of Justice.

The identified dead included: Joe Ramas, 31, of Pinole. Those injured included: James Silveira, 28, Rodeo, in "Damages amounted to approximately $50,000, confined to the immediate area.

"There were some fatalities and injuries resulting. It is too early to furnish details."

Whistle Warns Workers

At the scene, Chief Young said the blast was preceded by a fire whistle which began blowing about eight minutes before the blast. The whistle customarily is used to warn workers to flee from the Common Army

U. S. And Schuman Plan

The European trip of Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Director Stassen could hardly have been better timed to demonstrate the continuing interest of the United States in the movement toward unification of Europe

Their visits to the key European countries came on the eve of the inauguration of the Schuman coal and steel pool as a going concern. The new supranational authority created by the six Schuman Plan nations will begin by tearing down, as rapidly as possible, such national barriers to trade as customs duties, import and export quotas, transportation rate discrimination, double pricing.

Many Europeans look upon the Schuman Plan as a foundation stone for European unity. Jean Monnet, head of the high authority which controls the pool, has declared, "Our experiment can be considered a test for the future stages of the construction of Europe."

Our interest in European unity is almost on an "or else" basis. Dulles told the American people on January 27: "If, however, there were no chance, and that I just refuse to believe, but if it appeared there were no chance of getting effective unity, and if in particular France, Germany and England should go their separate ways, then certainly it would be necessary to give a little re-thinking to America's own foreign policy in relation to Western Europe.

The Schuman Plan operation offered Dulles an excellent opportunity to nudge European political leaders and say, "If you can get together on coal and steel, you can get together on other things." One of the "other things" would of course be the European Defense Community treaty, yet to be ratified by France, Germany, and the other member nations.

General Eisenhower praised the Schuman Plan in his first annual operational report as North Atlantic Treaty Organization supreme commander on April 2. 1952. Significantly, he then added: "It would be fatuous for anyone to assume that the taxpayers of America will continue to pour money and resources into Europe unless encouraged by steady progress toward mutual co-operation and full effectiveness.

The British Foreign Office on February 5 pointed to the British policy of working with the Schuman Plan nations (but not joining the organization) as a symbol of Britain's "earnest desire" for close relationship with "the political institutions of the European Defense Community." It was in the same statement that the Foreign Office announced a detailed plan for a "close military association" of Great Britain with the proposed European army.

The British statement was designed to quiet French fears that a re-armed Germany would dominate the six-nation army. These fears had been stirred anew by the restatement by British Foreign Secretary Eden on January 29 of Britain's intention not to join

Trench Warfare

The hostilities in Korea seem to have degenerated into the kind of trench warfare that stalemated the Western front during most of World War I. The Chinese Communists have been boasting that their lines are now too well fortified to be carried by assault. Certainly the UN forces got nowhere in their ambitious "Operation Smack" on January 25.

Three and a half months after the outbreak of war in 1914, the Germans dug in along the line in Northern France and Southern Belgium to which they had retreated after being thrown back at the Marne. The Allies could make no advance against the German trench lines. And the Germans were thrown back in their assault on the Allied trenches around

Before the end of the winter of 1914-15, trench fortifications extended in depth all the way from the English Channel to Switzerland. The Germans were repelled early in 1916 in their attempt to break through the French lines at Verdun; then the British lost heavily in their vain attempt to smash through the German trenches along the Somme.

Early in 1918 the Germans managed to break across the Allied trenches, in part by using gas, in part because of re-enforcements from the Russian front after the Soviet government had signed peace terms. Then the World War I hostilities were once more out in the open; the second retreat of the Germans from the Marne didn't give them time to en-

In World War II the land warfare in Northern France, Africa, and then Normandy was in the open. Although the German armies in Northern Italy did hold off the Allies largely by digging in, the prediction was general that the bombing plane and the tank had made trench warfare a thing of the past.

Wages Decontrolled

The course of wages now is expected to be much the same as before President Eisenhower ordered them decontrolled at the end of last week. Wages had been controlled chiefly on paper; in actuality, wage increases were sanctioned whenever real heat was turned on for them. The "coup de grace" to what little was left of effective wage control came last December when hot flashes in older women. I get President Truman, overruling the Wage Stabilization Board, allowed the coal miners to receive the full wage increase won by them in negotiations with the mine

A general freeze on wages and prices had been ordered on January 26, 1951. Several weeks later the Wage Stabilization Board sanctioned wage increases only high enough to cover the 10 per cent living-cost increase since January 1950. Thereupon the labor members of WSB resigned because this "catch-up" formula wasn't to be applied to wage scales in the

A new WSB allowed new wage boosts to meet new living-cost increases. Then it approved wage-incentive arrangements and various "fringe benefit" wage plans. And the long steel strike in the spring and summer of 1952 resulted in a sanction of wage increases that carried with them a sanction of price increases Since the general freeze order of January 26, 1951, average hourly earnings of production workers in manufacturing (no figures are available for all wage-earners) have risen (December 15, 1952) by 11 per cent. The general level of wholesale prices has fallen (January 27, 1953) by five per cent, and the index number of prices paid by city consumers has risen (December 15, 1952) by five per cent.

The Symbolism Of Food

It pays to be good to the cook because the meals served by the housewife often are symbolic of her feelings of warmth or rebellion and it is better not to take a chance. When mama is feeling good and everything about the house is hunky-dory, the meals are yummy. In this way she rewards her family but when she thinks punishment is in order the darndest concoctions are likely to appear on the table. She may not realize this reaction or admit that anything is amiss when she serves liver instead of steak, for example. She knows that liver is good for the family and uses this as an excuse.

This is but one of many examples of the relationship between food and the emotions. Furthermore, eating well is a symbol of security and those who never have had to worry about regular meals are likely to be better balanced emotionally than people who have had to wonder whence their next meal was coming. Want has been the motivating force behind great accomplishments in business and professional fields. The subjects of many success stories have had such a background and incentive.

In many countries and among primitive tribes the security aspect of food made it a valued possession. The modern lad who snitches an apple from the local market does not realize that in days gone by the stealing of food carried the death penalty. Food also is a token of friendship and in pre-Red China, for example, it was given as a special present. Here, packages of fruit or delicacies make popular gifts and conducting business over a luncheon or dinner table is a common practice.

There are many other psychological fancies connected with eating. The refusal of children to eat, according to Dr. Harriet Moore, is a form of rebellion against the parents. It is a rendition of the old refrain, "They'll be sorry when I'm dead." The man of the house may utilize the same technic by staying downtown for dinner on the pretense of an important business engagement. Wives who are somewhat unstable may use this weapon by serving meals that are not well balanced, even tho they know better. All these actions are contrary to most traditions where mother's cooking

However, these situations are not common. Most housewives are prospect. sufficiently interested in food to higher income groups are more varied because the lady of the house can afford to try new recipes and to experiment with new ideas. On the other hand, the housewife in the poorer family is obligated to hew to the line financially. She sticks to the sure thing rather than risk her reputation as a cook or her husband's hard earned money,

There is just one reason why they are leaving," I explained. They don't want to fight."

This caused surprise among the Frenchmen.

'There ought to be some way we could get some of those young Germans down here, let them be interviewed by French newspapers. put them on the French radio and let the French people realize they feel just the same way we do," remarked one French official.

"You have another great ally in Berlin," I suggested. "Mayor Reuter was so much opposed to war with France that he was jailed by Hitler. He finally escaped and spent the entire war in exile. British Block Propaganda Unity

At the last meeting of NATO information chiefs the Italian delegate proposed that NATO nations combine to intensify their propaganda against Communism. Last October Italian Premier de Gasperi personally initiated such a proposal, emphasizing that while NATO nations were arming for the future they were losing the propaganda battle of the present. A decision at that time was postponed so, this month, de Gasperi's deputy revived the idea and urged action on it. As usual, the British applied a large douche of cold water. Time after time the British have opposed any united propaganda efforts to educate the European masses regarding either the aims of NATO or the evils of Sovietism, so the British stand this time was no surprise.

What occasioned not only surprise but amazement, however, was when Joe Phillips, representing the State Department, firmly seconded the British stand.

General Eisenhower, when head of NATO, was strong for vigorous, united propaganda efforts by its members. Also, Eisenhower, when running for president, delivered a speech pledging an active propaganda campaign behind the Iron Curtain. Furthermore, his new secretary of state went out of the way "containment" policy toward the become a reality.

Today In Washington BY DAVID LAWRENCE WASHINGTON-There is to be trade with Communist China and no piecemeal program to win the North Korea. "cold war." Nor is there to be any isolated action taken to wind happens hereafter will be on an sultation with America's allies.

This has been the plan from the very moment the Eisenhower-Dulles team began to formulate foreign policy for the new administration- in early December

The only problem in which the United States decided to act on its own, but to notify the Allies in advance, was the withdrawal of the Seventh Fleet from Formosa. The Allies were not a party to this when the restriction was imposed in the first instance-in fact, there was considerable criticism from London and other capitals when the United States presumably held the Communists back in June 1950 from a possible invasion of Formosa.

Technically and legally the United Nations has nothing to do with the American Navy's presence in and around Formosa, so a simple explanation to the allies of America's purpose now in withdrawing the fleet was considered sufficient.

When, however, any blockade of the China coast or the bombing of bases in Manchuria or any other move designed to put pressure on the Chinese Communists is up for consideration so as to compel a truce in Korea, the decision will be made in unison with the Allies.

The Eisenhower administration has determined that, as a necessary first step, the South Korean eign soil. If the Allied nations army shall be built up to as many divisions as possible so that other allied troops can be withdrawn from the front lines within the next year or so. Also there will be an uninterrupted build-up of the land, sea and air forces of the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa. This step doesn't require any Allied sanction. It is a continuing policy begun long before the Korean War started.

It is not intended, on the other hand, by the administration here to rest solely on the idea of letting South Korean troops take over in Korea, nor is dependence to be placed solely on what the Chinese Nationalists may do to harass the Chinese Communists on the mainland. A broader and more comprehensive policy is in the making.

Whatever policies are adopted will be on a global basis. Europe is not to be regarded as a separate affair unrelated to what happens in Asia

The first move will come when the United Nations assembly meets again shortly. The American government will lay the facts before the UN and ask for concerted action to block off any

The U. N. will have to decide wether it wants a blockade. If it up the Korean situation. Whatever is approved, units from the British and other Navies will be asked to inter-Allied basis after full con- share the responsibility of blockade with the United States Navy.

> Should European nations take the position that they do not want a naval blockade and should they take the position that this might "enlarge the war," the American government is likely to counter with the idea that the same risk prevails in Europe, where, at the very doorstep of Russia, the European Defense Army and the NATO Army are being built up for the sole purpose of thwarting a Communist march across Europe. Had the Russians prepared to go to war, this threat would be sufficient to provoke them.

If the United States is to be asked to bear the brunt of the world police problem both in Asia and in Europe, then, it is being argued, there must be concerted action of an effective character. There must be an end to the prolonged stalemate in which American power is continuously drained, and, in the case of Korea, American boys are killed and wounded while the other nations maintain only token forces.

What may develop soon inside America is a drive to bring American boys home from both Asia and Europe. There are suggestions that a deadline of two years be set by Congress, within which time the American government should endeavor to bring all American troops home from forwhich have the manpower available do not set up enough divisions to defend their own countries, the question will arise as to what the fate of American divisions might be in the event of the outbreak of war.

The trend is toward an effort to get a united Allied policy, but, if this fails, then the American government will be faced with a demand at home to let the South Koreans take care of Korea and let the Europeans take care of their own defense.

Certainly the Allied governments cannot have it both waysto prevent America from using its maximum military power in Asia and at the same time to expect American manpower to be bled indefinitely in Asia even as Europe expects more and more American troops to be sent to defend the continent. A showdown in global policy is inevitable if the Allies do not make up their nds to present a united front in the "cold war

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

It Won't Be Cheap

Tuesday of this week is likely to go down in history as the first major turning point of the Eisenhower administration. It was the day when the hard fact was faced that there are no cheap, magical solutions of any big problem, and especially of the Far Eastern

Evidently President Eisenhower and the State Department policymakers did not forsee the consequences of their psychologically justifiable but militarily meaningless gesture of "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek. Plainly, they did not expect the ensuing orgy of wishful thinking and irresponsible talking about painless, miraculous ways to humble the Chinese Communists and end the Korean War. At any rate, it can be said that the orgy had not gone on for long high time to apply a corrective. Under the President's instrucfore applied by Gen. Omar Bradley. The chairman of the Joint tions, the corrective was there-Chiefs of Staff followed Secretary Relations Committee on Tuesday. Thorny Points

Although the assembled Senators only wished to talk about Far Eastern solutions, Secretary Dul-

Soviet as being too passive. Nevertheless, State Department Information Chief Phillips emphatically sided with the British against the Italian proposal to set up a cooperative propaganda agency to fight

Polish Radio Trickery At another NATO information

meeting, the French representative proposed a move to prevent America and other Allied broadcasts. He suggested that the British Broadcasting Corporation, the French Radio and the Voice beam their propaganda to Russia at exactly the same time, thus making it impossible for Moscow to jam all of them, Again State Department Representative Phillips said

The French also suggest an international anti-Communist propaganda committee to prevent propaganda confusion. For instance, a favorite trick of the Polish Radio is to compare what the British Radio says with the French and the Voice of America to show the conflict between them and then announcing "obviously they lie."

These are just a few of the problems badly needing solution if the great goal of a United Europe is to les made his European journey his chief theme. As to such much-WASHINGTON discussed expedients as the blockade of the China coast, Dulles contented himself with saying that no adventures of this sort were planned, so far as he knew. That left Gen. Bradley with the task of disillusioning the Senators, several of whom had worked themselves up to demanding a blockade tomorrow morning. Bradley made the folowing thorny points

First international law forbids a blockade without the declaration of a state of war. If we declared ourselves at war with Communist China, the character of the Korean War would be instantaneou transformed, and we should find ourselves fighting alone, with our allies holding aloof. Incidentally, the blockade could not include Hongkong without a declaration of war on Great Britain, but could include Port Arthur and Dairen, since these ports technically belong to China.

Invite Reprisals Second, besides dividing this country from its allies, a blockade would invite reprisals. The Chinese might step up the air war in Korea, which they are now capable of doing. They might bomb Formosa, which has no serious air defense; attack Hongkong or at least cut off its supplies; and even attack the American bases in Okinawa and Japan, which are weakly defended. Ostensibly Chinese submarines might attack the American blockading vessels. And the chance that the Soviets themselves might intervene openly. under the terms of the Sino-Soviet pact, is taken more seriously than is generally supposed.

Third, despite all the demagogic bellowing to the contrary, an offshore blockade to halt Chinese imports would be relatively inef-Russian jamming of the Voice of fectual. What is needed is an in shore blockade, cutting off the coastal shipping that constitute Communist China's main internal lines of communications.

Fourth, and most important of all, a blockade would certainly be inflaming; it might be crippling; but it could not be counted on to bring the Chinese Communists to heel. Hence a blockade should not be planned except as one item in a broader program of military and other action, aimed to make the Chinese Communists see reason by force. The extent of such a program may be gauged by the fact that the whole moth-ball fleet would have to be mobilized merely to maintain an inshore blockade.

White House Press Secretary Jim Hagerty, a good Joe, is pioneering in new and arresting ways of saying "no." Jim was asked the other day if Ike favors blockading the China coast and replied, "I have no answer to make to that question, and don't infer either a yes or a no from that."

Jim has held up good-naturedly, to date, under what appears to be the habit of other White House matters without alerting Hagerty and preparing him for the inevitable barrage of questions. The ban on loitering, and the curtailment of cigaret and coffee time, for example. And the furore over whether "Hacky" got the axe.

"Hacky" is a splendid fixture around the White House. She ran the switchboard from 1933 until she went on sick leave recently, and ran it superbly. It never "leaked" a secret, though more secrets passed through it than any board PHONES

A Cake That Is New As 1953— Chocolate, Of Course!

A brand new year is a brand new the rim of the Seven Minute Frostcake. And this is it. It's Light ing on Light Chocolate Cake, just Chocolate Cake with the lighter, press a few semi-sweet chocolate more delicate flavor achieved with morsels into the frosting. semi-sweet chocolate. The fluffy, fine-grained texture that good cooks dream of is more than fulfilled in this cake. It's feathery light. And it has a clever provision for the Seven Minute Frosting right in the cake ingredients. The cake is made with one whole egg and two egg yolks That leaves you two egg whites for the Seven Minute Frosting. There'll over hot, not boiling water. #### Cherry-Vanilla Ice Cream Pie Is A Washington's Birthday Treat RESTIVE cherry-vanilla ice cream will be ready this year in handy pre-packaged pints and half-gallons to provide the perfect party dessert for celebrating George Washington's Birthday. Cherry-vanilla was introduced about 20 years ago in Philadelphia and has since become a national choice, ranking just behind vanilla and chocolate during its big month—February. Specially developed Oregon cherries help make it bright and flavorful. Here pre-packaged pints of cherry-vanilla are spooned into a chilled pastry shell. Use 1 pint for a 6-inch shell, 2 pints for a 8 or 9-inch shell, and 3 pints for a 10-inch shell. Top with a ring for an 8 or 9-inch shell, and 3 pints for a 10-inch shell. Top with a ring of whipped cream and some long-stemmed maraschinos for extra fanciness. You can make individual pastry shells if you prefer.

COULD THIS BE ABE?—This enlarged portion of a much-disputed photograph shows a man who some Lincoln scholars think may be the Great Emancipator. Some contend the tall man in the stovepipe hat (just to the right of the locomotive) is the Civil War president, taken on his historic trip to Gettysburg. Others insist the man isn't Lincoln and couldn't be. The town presumably is Hanover Junction, Pa. If this what some say it is, it represents the the only picture of Lincoln taken on his trip to Gettysburg in 1863.

Furman Star Is Tops With Average Of 27.4

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 A - Selvy of Furman scored 63 points against Mercer Wednesday night and as a result is the nation's leading basketball scorer among major col-eges today. Selvy's outburst, the biggest single night's production of the year in the major field, lifted him ahead of Pennsylvania's Ernie Beck, Seattle's Johnny O'Brien and unbeaten Seton Hall's Walt Dukes in figures released by the NCAA Service Bureau. All four are within six-tenths of a point of one another in games through Wednesday, in the closest race on record. Now the standings are Selvy, 27.4 points a game, Beck 27.2, O'Brien 27.19 and Dukes 26.8. Leaders in other departments are, in shooting accuracy, Seattle's Eddie O'Brien, Johnny's twin, with 57.3 per cent; foul shooting, Andy Likens, Oklahoma City, and Don Edwards, San Jose State, 83.8 per cent; and rebounding, Fordham's Ed Conlin with 23.9 a game.

Many are asking if we are going to carry Altaona en our cable system. Yes we intend to make use of any station whereby we can get clearer reception and a better variety of programs.

It may be that we will use Altoona during the day and for their sport events, then switch to Pittsburgh for their sport events and their all night and early morning programs or, we may be able to substitute Altoona for some of Washington's Disc Jockey programs and the time left unused by Washington on Saturdays and Sundays.

After a short study of reception and programs, we will keep the local papers informed in advance for their

New Fort Hill Band Instruments

Leonard E. Adams, left, president of the Fort Hill Band Parents Association, is shown presenting Gordon H. Williams, Fort Hill band director, a check for $2,000 to pay for the new instruments shown in the foreground. The presentation was made at the association's meeting last night. Included in the gift from the parents' group are three baritone horns, three alto horns, a glockenspiel, three street drums, one tenor drum and one Scotch drum, as well as a complete portfolio of new band music. With these new instruments Williams aims to expand the size of the band from its present 55 members to 70 or 75 by next football season. The 22 members who will be graduated in June will be succeeded by recruits who advance from Johnson Heights, Penn Avenue and John Humbird Schools, Other officers of the association besides Adams are Mrs. George Alexander, vice-president; Mrs. Ethel Adams, treasurer, and Mrs. Florence Kester, secretary.
